INVESTIGATION OF SLEEPY'S, LLC CLOSED; NO EVIDENCE OF VIOLATIONS FOUND

For immediate release

WEDNESDAY, April 27, 2011

HARTFORD – Attorney General George Jepsen announced today that an investigation of Sleepy's, LLC has been closed with no evidence that the bedding company violated Connecticut law.

“My office has now closed the investigation and will take no further action at this time,” Jepsen wrote in a letter Monday to the company's attorney.

The investigation began in late 2009 after the office received several consumer complaints concerning the quality of mattresses sold in Connecticut, including allegations regarding mattress depression and bed bug infestations.

The investigation found that consumer complaints about mattress defects were subject to and handled according to the manufacturer's warranties. It also found no evidence of bed bug infestation of company warehouses or delivery trucks, which are regularly inspected and fumigated.

Further, the company provided information that it has never re-sold used mattresses to consumers and that it has a system in place to ensure that all returned mattresses are not mixed with new mattresses, which are purchased only from manufacturers.

Jepsen thanked the company for cooperating in the investigation. Assistant Attorneys General Sandra G. Arenas and Michele S. Riverso handled the investigation for the Office of the Attorney General.
